

WHERE THE EXCHANGE ON AESTHETIC PERSPECTIVE BEGINS

Cosmetic SURGERY TIMES

VOL. 11 NO. 10
NOVEMBER/DECEMBER 2008
www.COSMETICSURGERYTIMES.com

a Spice of Life

A new look at an age-old
antioxidant
to battle
photoaging

Ilya Petrou, M.D.
SENIOR STAFF CORRESPONDENT

the phytochemical, curcumin — which gives the spice, tumeric, its yellow color — is becoming increasingly popular as an anti-aging agent. Some experts think its potent anti-inflammatory power may earn it a place in today's aesthetic arsenal — particularly in the treatment of photodamaged skin.

Timeless